Concrete Roads and Autos Hit Rail Traffic

The Rock Island railroad has made a change in train service, which, while not effecting stations east of Joliet, does now cut down the service west of Joliet.

The morning west-bound train, which formerly ran from Chicago to Rock Island as a local, has been discontinued since Sunday, and a suburban train is being run in its place from Chicago to Joliet only, on the former train's time. In the evening this train runs back from Joliet to Chicago in place of train No. 18. By this arrangement all stations from Joliet to Chicago are getting better service, as the new train will always be run nearly on time, which it was impossible to do with the former train.

It is said the reason why the Rock Island train has been cut out is that the passenger traffic west of Joliet did not warrant the continued operation of the train. Concrete roads, too many autos and the C. O. & P. traction line have been drawing away the passenger traffic which formerly went to the railroad.

Mokena Movies Clean Says Hall Manager

Alfred Hatch, manager of the Hatch hall, Mokena, states that Mokena does not need a movie censor, inasmuch as the movies given at this hall have been clean. Mr. Hatch further states he takes exception to the article appearing in the News-Bulletin last week referring to the Jesse James movies as "blood-curdling, blood-and-thunder" movies. He states that only the good qualities were shown, and that only good pictures are being allowed. He says the party who directed the criticism against the one film in particular perhaps never attended the shows, since he was so mistaken in his conception of the character of the movie.

[Editor's Note. As there are always two sides to a case, The News-Bulletin stands ready to present both sides. It is hoped that, with both sides given, the situation is clarified, and that it will be for the best of the community. We want to see movies in Mokena, but we also want to see the right kind, that will be a benefit to all.]

Frankfort Host To Brotherhood convention

Frankfort was host to a Brotherhood convention of the National Evangelical Brotherhoods of the north Illinois district. The Brotherhoods of the Evangelical churches of Mokena, Peotone, Grant Park and Chicago Heights were out in force. Blue Island was also represented. The gathering was held at the St. Peter's Evangelical church. Hundreds of members of the Brotherhoods were present at the special services. Blue Island is seeking to be taken in to the Brotherhood membership of this district.

Mokena will entertain these Brotherhoods next year. On account of many Fall church festivals coming at this time of the year, it was suggested that the meeting next year be held in June. The matter is to be taken up by the various Brotherhoods and a date decided on later.

A supper was served to all the visiting members at the St. Peter's Evangelical church parlor.

Many excellent things were brought out in the various addresses, showing what work other Brotherhoods are doing, and what particular points the local Brotherhoods should work on. Closer organization and association was one of the things brought out as being much needed to make a big success of this particular organization.

The meeting next year will be held in the beautiful new St. John church in Mokena.

Frankfort Exchange To Have New Quarters

Frankfort is going to have quite an important change in its local exchange. The Illinois Bell Telephone Co. has been making important changes in taking over the entire flat over the Fokkers Bros. market, once used as a dental apartment and office. The new quarters will provide living room accommodations, in addition to a much enlarged and better equipped local exchange office. Work of moving the central from its present location to the new quarters is to be completed by Oct. 15th, it is understood. This exchange is to be a commission exchange, instead of a straight salary, as was formerly the case. It is understood that the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. is putting most of its small town exchanges on a commission basis.

LOCKPORT WILL CELEBRATE OUR NEIGHBORING CITY'S COMPLETION AND OPENING OF ITS $700,000 PAVED STREETS WILL BE CELEBRATED WITH GREAT HOME-COMING AFFAIR, OCTOBER 4, 5, 6 and 7

Our neighboring City of Lockport is going to celebrate for four whole big days next week with an Autumn Fete and Home Coming. The dates are Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, October 4th, 5th, 6th and 7th.

Lockport has probably spent more money in street improvements in the last two years than any other town of its size in the world, and the people of the city want everybody within a radius of twenty miles and more to pay a visit to their celebration on one or more of the festival days.

The celebration is to be marked by a grand aggregation of entertainment features, such as dare-devil aeroplane and parachute stunts, parades, ball games, wrestling, magician, dancing, and all kinds of contests and sports.

Several noted speakers are being scheduled for the program, and fine musical features are promised.

Lockport may be depended upon to entertain all of its visitors on this occasion on the same generous scale as it has carried out its improvement program the past few years, and that will be going some.

Orland Commissioner's Ever Been In Half Day? It's on the Map Newpew Married

Following is a writeup which appeared in the Jackson county (Minn.) Pilot, relative to the wedding of Gordon L. Dilley, nephew of Wm. T. Beagley, Commissioner of Orland township, and also well known to many residents of Orland and surrounding country:

A pretty wedding ceremony was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Quiggle, on South street, Wednesday morning, 10:30 o'clock, when their youngest daughter, Miss Myrtle, was united in marriage to Mr. Gordon L. Dilley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Dilley of Enterprise township. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. W. Root of the Alpha Presbyterian church.

The bride was attired in a beautiful gown of brown satin. Miss Mary Dilley, sister of the groom, was the bridesmaid. She wore a dress of brown taffeta. Mr. Clarence Gemmil was best man. Lohengrin's wedding march was played by Miss Evelyn Grublike.

Immediately following the service, the bride's mother served a delicious wedding lunch.

The newlyweds left immediately for a two weeks' visit at Chicago and various points in Michigan. On their return, they will commence housekeeping on a farm in Enterprise township.

The brides requires no introduction to our readers in this city, as she has lived here all her life, and is well and favorably known to the people of this vicinity. She is a graduate of the Jackson high school, class of 1921, and taught school in District No. 94 during the past school year. Her many friends wish her an abundance of happiness in her new home.

The groom is a prosperous young farmer of Enterprise township, where he is held in high esteem by a large circle of friends.

Ever Been In Half Day? It's on the Map

Ever heard of Half Day? Yes there is such place on the map. Deputy A. C. Scheiblich of Mokena was surprised Sunday when he brought five nimrods before Justice J. F. Schultz for trespassing, when one of the hunters said he was from Half Day. At first it was thought a joke. Justice Schultz said he knew of the place and producing an auto road map he was able to show the name of the town on the map, its location being 3 miles from Wheeling on the Milwaukee Avenue road and is about 8 miles from a railroad.

Ben Wakes Ben

There is much rivalry among Ben Ricks and Claude Rice of the Rock Island railroad force at Tinley Park as to who can get on the job first, and invariably Mr. Rice is there first, but, as the saying goes, "the worm turns," so it happened the other morning that Ben set his "Old Ben Alarm Clock," and got up in the wee sma' hours of the morning, and showed first on the job, much to the surprise of the punctual Mr. Rice.

To Wed Mokena Man

A miscellaneous shower was given on Miss Maud Hulton, one of Orland's popular young ladies, Saturday afternoon and evening, at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Philip Sippel.

The bride-to-be received many beautiful and useful gifts. Miss Hulton is soon to become the bride of Mr. Harry Barenz, a prominent young man of Mokena.

copies of the proclamation of Gov. Small, designating Oct. 9th as Fire Prevention Day in Illinois. Mr. Schweser is going to make a careful examination of chimneys before the winter furnace fires are started, and all chimneys not found safe will have to be repaired at once.

EMIL KEUCH HIT BY TRAIN ON BAD DETOUR CROSSING

Emil Keuch, son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Keuch, was struck and seriously injured by a Wabash train, Monday afternoon. The accident happened at the detour crossing northeast of Orland. This is a very bad crossing, without any protection whatever, and approaching trains cannot be seen until one is on the crossing on account of the brush and trees alongside the road and the high embankment of the railroad.

Mr. Keuch was coming off the Palos Park road and was heading eastward when the accident took place. He failed to see the 4 o'clock north-bound Wabash suburban train, and the engineer did not see him until the auto was on the crossing, and the train could not be stopped in time to avert the collision.

The engine struck the auto about in the center and hurled Mr. Keuch to one side of the right-of-way, causing a fracture of the skull. The injured man was placed on the train, which came to a stop as soon after hitting the auto as was possible. He was taken to Englewood, and from there to the Burnside hospital. He has been in a critical condition since.

The auto was smashed to a junk heap. No blame is placed on the engineer of the Wabash train, as he has the reputation of being very careful.

The crossing in question is only a temporary one used in detouring while work is going on further up the road for making a viaduct of the proper crossing. A watchman should be placed at the detour crossing, as it is extremely dangerous.

Five Hunters Nabbed For Trespassing At Mokena Sunday

With the opening of the hunting season, out-of-town hunters are getting into trouble at Mokena. On Sunday five hunters, two from Chicago and three from Chicago Heights, were arrested by Deputy Andrew Scheiblich, on charges of trespassing. Upon being searched, one hunter was found to be without a hunting license. Another one pulled a gun and resisted arrest. The five men were brought before Justice John F. Schultz and were fined.

Following are the names of the hunters, addresses charges against them, and amount of fines assessed:

H. W. Gammon, 2116 W. North Avenue, Chicago; trespassing; $15 and costs. Victor Roncarati, 330 West Grand Avenue, Chicago; trespassing and resisting an officer; $40 and costs. The following whose names and addresses are said to be fictitious, were only assessed $10 costs each on trespassing: Tom Jones, Steger; John Doe, Englewood; James Dooley, Half Day, Ill.

FOR SALE—8 piece solid brown mahogany, Spanish leather upholstered parlor set. Price reasonable. Mrs. George Hopman, Tinley Park, Ill.

Tinley Shoe Shop Built Before R. I.

The celebration of the Rock Island railroad's 70th anniversary, which is to take place on October 10th, is of much interest to the first towns on its line, which was first built from Chicago to Joliet.

Tinley Park can boast of having a building that is over 70 years old. The shoe shop now occupied by George Schreiber is said to have been the first building put up in Tinley Park, and was built before the Rock Island railroad was built. The building originally stood on the site on which the former Dick Bruening saloon is located. The old landmark was used in the early days as a store, saloon and shoe shop. Good home-made whiskey sold at that time for about 15 cents a gallon. When the railroad construction force came, they made this place a sort of headquarters. The men were boarded at the old John Fulton home.

The building in question is still in use every day, and is showing signs of old age, but is still in service.

D. W. Turney of Salbina, Missouri, who was born and raised in this section, is on a visit here now with the Bert Fulton family, and well recollects when there was only one building in Tinley Park. He remembers very distinctly when the work was being done in building the road, and remembers hearing others talk about the first train operated on the Rock Island from Chicago to Joliet, on Oct. 10, 1852. Joliet was then the terminal of the road, and it is now over 52 years since the terminal point was changed.

Mr. Turney was about 6 years old when the Rock Island operated its first train, and he has served as postmaster at Harvey.

Tinley Park feels quite proud that it has the oldest building in this section still standing in its midst, and with such a wealth of local history connected with it as it has.

School Community Campaign On

The annual Cook County Community School Campaign is about to open. The campaign will be on Oct. 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6. It is planned to hold an evening meeting in every schoolhouse in the county. Some of the head-liners on the speakers' program are as follows:

F. G. Blair, State Supt. of Instruction; David Felmy, Pres. Ill. State Normal University; H. W. Shayrock, Pres. S. Ill. State Normal University; L. C. Lord, Pres. E. Ill. State Normal University; U. G. Hoffman, Director Rural Education; Miss Margaret Streeter, Director of Music Appreciation. In addition to these speakers, there will be forty others. The campaign is under the auspices of the following country life directors:

Charles W. Farr, Division 1; A. E. Paul, Div. 2; Seth Shepherd, Div. 3; Thomas W. Hart, Div. 4; Nellie G. McMahon, Div. 5; Catherine McClaghery, Div. 6, and C. G. Walter, Division 7.

Your Silent Servant

That is what a Check Book is to the modern housewife or business woman. It serves in the place of keeping a large amount of ready cash on hand with which to pay bills. It serves as a receipt of any financial transaction. It serves as an undeniable record of money paid out. And last but not least, it is handy and a time saver.

TWO DAYS AFTER THANKSGIVING

The violinist has got a rival. I'm sure he has. It's Mr. Easterbrook. He's old—much as forty—and bald-headed and fat, and has got lots of money. And he's a very estimable man. (I heard Aunt Hattie say that.) He's awfully jolly, and I like him. He brings me the loveliest boxes of candy, and calls me Puss. (I don't like that, particularly. I'd prefer him to call me Miss Anderson.) He's not nearly so good-looking as the violinist. The violinist is lots more thrilling, but I shouldn't wonder if Mr. Easterbrook was more comfortable to live with.

The violinist is the kind of a man that makes you want to sit up and take notice, and have your hair and finger nails and shoes just right; but with Mr. Easterbrook you wouldn't mind a bit sitting in a big chair before the fire with a pair of old slippers on, if your feet were tired.

Mr. Easterbrook doesn't care for music. He's a broker. He looks awfully bored when the violinist is playing, and he fidgets with his watch-chain, and clears his throat very loudly just before he speaks every time. His automobile is bigger and handsomer than the violinist's. (Aunt Hattie says the violinist's automobile is a hired one.) And Mr. Easterbrook's flowers that he sends to Mother are handsomer, too, and lots more of them, than the violinist's. Aunt Hattie has noticed that, too. In fact, I guess there isn't anything about Mr. Easterbrook that she doesn't notice.

Aunt Hattie likes Mr. Easterbrook lots better than she does the violinist. I heard her talking to Mother one day.

ONE WEEK LATER

There hasn't much happened—only one or two things. But maybe I'd better tell them before I forget it, especially as they have a good deal to do with the love part of the story. And I'm always so glad to get anything of that kind. I've been so afraid this wouldn't be much of a love story, after all. But I guess it will be, all right. Anyhow, I know Mother's part will be for it's a love story, and you know.

They both want Mother. Anybody can see that now, and, of course, Mother sees it. But which she'll take I don't know. Nobody knows. It's perfectly plain to be seen, though, which one Grandfather and Aunt Hattie want her to take! It's Mr. Easterbrook.

And he is awfully nice. He brought me a perfectly beautiful bracelet the other day—but Mother wouldn't let me keep it. So he had to take it back. I don't think he liked it very well, and I didn't like it, either. I wanted that bracelet. But Mother says I'm much too young to wear much jewelry. Oh, will the time ever come when I'll be old enough to take my proper place in the world? Sometimes it seems as if it never would!

Well, as I said, it's plain to be seen who it is that Grandfather and Aunt Hattie favor; but I'm not so sure about Mother. Mother acts funny. Sometimes she won't go with either of them anywhere; then she seems to want to go all the time. And she acts as if she didn't care which she went with, so long as she was just going—somewhere. I think, though, she really likes the violinist the best; and I guess Grandfather and Aunt Hattie think so, too.

Something happened last night. Grandfather began to talk at the dinner table. He'd heard something he didn't like about the violinist, I guess, and he started in to tell Mother. But they stopped him. Mother and Aunt Hattie looked at him and then at me, and then back to him, in their most see-who's-here!—you mustn't-talk-before-her way. So he shrugged his shoulders and stopped.

But I guess he told them in the library afterwards, for I heard them all talking very excitedly, and some loud; and I guess Mother didn't like what they said, and got quite angry, for I heard her say, when she came out through the door, that she didn't believe a word of it, and she thought it was a wicked, cruel shame to tell stories like that just because they didn't like a man.

ONE WEEK LATER

Well, I guess now something has happened all right! And let me say right away that I don't like that violinist now, either, any better than Grandfather and Aunt Hattie. And it's not entirely because of what happened last night, either. It's been coming on for a while—ever since I first saw him talking to Theresa in the hall when she let him in one night a week ago.

Theresa is awfully pretty, and I guess he thinks so. Anyhow, I heard him telling her so in the hall, and she laughed and blushed and looked sideways at him. Then they saw me, and he stiffened up and said, very proper and dignified, "Kindly hand my card to Mrs. Anderson." And Theresa said, "Yes, sir." And she was very proper and dignified, too.

Well, four days ago I saw them again. He tried to put his arm around her that time, and the very next day he tried to kiss her, and after a minute she let him. More than once, too. And last night I heard him tell her she was the dearest girl in all the world, and he'd be perfectly happy if he could only marry her.

Well, you can imagine how I felt, when I thought all the time it was Mother he was coming to see! And now to find out that it was Theresa he wanted all the time, and he was only coming to see Mother so he could see Theresa!

Of course, so far, I'm the only one that knows, for I haven't told it, and I'm the only one that's seen anything. Of course, I shall warn Mother, if I think it's necessary, so she'll understand it isn't her, but Theresa, that the violinist is really in love with and courting. She won't mind, I'm sure, after she thinks of it a minute. And won't it be a good joke on Aunt Hattie and Grandfather when they find out they've been fooled all the time, supposing it's Mother, and worrying about it?

Oh, I don't know! This is some love story, after all!

TWO DAYS LATER

What do you suppose has happened now? Why, that wretched violinist is nothing but a deep-dyed villain! Listen what he did. He proposed to Mother—actually proposed to her—and after all he'd said to that Theresa girl, about his being perfectly happy if he could marry her. And Mother—Mother all the time not knowing! Oh, I'm so glad I was there to rescue her! I don't mean at the proposal—I didn't hear that. But afterward.

It was like this: They had been out automobiling—Mother and the violinist. I was in my favorite window-seat, reading, when they came home and walked into the library. They never looked my way at all, but just walked toward the fireplace. And there he took hold of both her hands and said:

"Why must you wait, darling? Why can't you give me my answer now, and make me the happiest man in all the world?"

"Yes, yes, I know," answered Mother; and I knew by her voice that she was all shaky and trembling. "But if I could only be sure—sure of myself!"

"But, dearest, you're sure of me," cried the violinist. "You know how I love you. You know you're the only woman I have ever loved, or ever could love!"

"Why Must You Wait, Darling?"

Yes, just like that he said it—that awful lie—and to my mother. My stars! Do you suppose I waited to hear any more? I guess not!

I fairly tumbled off my seat, and my book dropped with a bang, as I ran forward. Dear, dear, but how they did jump—both of them! And I guess they were surprised. I never thought how't was going to affect them—my breaking in like that. But I didn't wait—not a minute. I just started right in and began to talk. And I talked hard and fast, and lots of it.

I don't know now what I said, but I know I asked him what he meant by saying such an awful lie to my mother, when he'd just said the same thing, exactly most, to Theresa, and he'd hugged her and kissed her, and everything. I'd seen him. And—

But I didn't get a chance to say half I wanted to. I was going on to tell him what I thought of him; but Mother gasped out, "Marie! Marie! Stop!"

And then I stopped. I had to, of course. Then she said that would do, and I might go to my room. And I went. And that's all I know about it, except that she came up, after a little, and said for me not to talk any more about it, to her, or to any one else; and to please try to forget it.

I tried to tell her what I'd seen, and what I'd heard that wicked, deep-dyed villain say; but she wouldn't let me. She shook her head, and said, "Hush, hush, dear"; and that no good could come of talking of it, and she wanted me to forget it. She was very sweet and very gentle, and she smiled; but there were stern corners to her mouth, even when the smile was there. And I guess she told him what was what. Anyhow, I know they had quite a talk before she came up to me, for I was watching at the window for him to go; and when he did go he looked very red and cross and he stalked away with a never-will-I-darken-this-door-again kind of step, just as far as I could see him.

I don't know, of course, what will happen next, nor whether he'll ever come back for Theresa; but I shouldn't think even she would want him, after this, if she found out.

And now, where's my love story coming in, I should like to know?

TWO DAYS AFTER CHRISTMAS

Another wonderful thing has happened. I've had a letter from Father—from Father!—a letter—me!

It came this morning. Mother brought it in to me. She looked queer—a little. There were two red spots in her cheeks, and her eyes were very bright.

"I think you have a letter here from—your father," she said, handing it out.

I could see she was wondering what could be in it. But I guess she wasn't wondering any more than I was, only I was gladder to get it than she was. I suppose. Anyhow, when she saw how glad I was, and how I jumped for the letter, she drew back, and looked somehow as if she'd been hurt, and said:

"I did not know, Marie, that a letter from—your father would mean so much to you."

I don't know what I did say to that. I guess I didn't say anything. I'd already begun to read the letter, and I was in such a hurry to find out what he'd said.

"I'll copy it here. It wasn't long. It was like this:

"My Dear Mary:

"Some way Christmas has made me think of you. I wish I had sent you some gift. Yet I have not the slightest idea what would please you. To tell the truth, I tried to find something—but had to give it up."

"I am wondering if you had a good time, and what you did. After all, I'm pretty sure you did have a good time, for you are Marie now. You see, I have not forgotten how tired you got of being—Mary. Well, well, I do not know as I can blame you."

"And now that I have asked what you did for Christmas, I suspect it is no more than a fair turnabout to tell you what I did. I suppose I had a very good time. Your Aunt Jane says I did. I heard her telling one of the neighbors that last night. She had a very fine dinner, and she invited Mrs. Darling and Miss Snow and Miss Sanborn to eat it with us. She said she didn't want me to feel lonesome. But you can feel real lonesome in a crowd sometimes. Did you know that, Mary?"

"But I left them to their chatter after dinner and went out to the observatory. I think I must have fallen asleep on the couch there, for it was quite dark when I awoke. But I didn't mind that, for there were some observations I wanted to take. It was a beautifully clear night, so I stayed there till nearly morning."

"How about it? I suppose Marie plays the piano every day, now, doesn't she? The piano here hasn't been touched since you went away. Oh, yes, it was touched once. Your aunt played hymns on it for a missionary meeting."

"Well, what did you do Christmas? Suppose you write and tell

"Your Father."

I'd been reading the letter out loud, and when I got through Mother was pacing up and down the room. For a minute she didn't say anything; then she whirled round suddenly and faced me, and said, just as if something inside of her was making her say it:

"I notice there is no mention of your mother in that letter, Marie. I suppose—your father has quite forgotten that there is such a person in the world as I."

But I told her no, oh, no, and that I was sure he remembered her, for he used to ask me questions often about what she did, and the violinist and all.

"The violinist!" cried Mother, whirling around on me again. (She'd begun to walk up and down once more.) "You don't mean to say you ever told your father about him?"

"Oh, no, not everything," I explained, trying to show how patient I was, so she would be patient, too. (But it didn't work.) "I couldn't tell him everything because everything hadn't happened then. But I told about his being here, and about the others, too; but, of course, I said I didn't know which you'd take, and—"

"You told him you didn't know which I'd take!" gasped Mother.

OPPORTUNITY TO EVERY MAN

Life's Ambitions Can Generally Be Realized, if One Is Willing to Pay the Price.

Life's ideals are not always capable of being realized. Too many people have the same desires and glut the market. Besides, only a few can do what they thought they could. It's no wonder such folks are easy prey for the human vultures that hover near the carrion pits.

But this is no reason why you should join the ranks of the unfortunate. It's your time to make good, my boy. The old world has opportunities on the begging list. The trouble is folks don't want them.

Why not tackle the job nearest you? Put the enthusiasm of your play, and the intelligence of your best thinking into what you do. Play the game as if you meant to win. The results will justify you.

Your record will depend on you. Our greatest men are the product of their own industry. Head and hand write the record that places you among the nation's honored citizens. Each one doing his best can rise to the height of his ambitions if he will pay the price.—Grit.

Sporting Element.

"Golf is my favorite exercise." "I prefer gardening. The implements are cheaper than those used in golf, and there's always a sporting chance that you may raise something fit to eat."—Boston Transcript.

The German Kaiser's Own Story

The long-awaited autobiography of Germany's deposed emperor will be published in The Chicago Daily News, beginning Tuesday, September 26, continuing in daily installments until completed.

The story is well told, and will command the attention of readers everywhere. Many of the author's opinions and statements are fantastic from the American point of view, but interest in the narrative is increased, rather than lessened, by this fact. Old controversies are sure to be revived, old discussions renewed, by the former kaiser's defense of Germany and his attacks on the leaders of other nations. For instance, he takes seriously the old absurd canard about a secret treaty against Germany and Austria, in 1897, by the United States, Great Britain and France. This is only one of his declarations that will amaze—and amuse—the American reader.

Beginning with a chapter on Bismarck, the ex-emperor traces history through four decades. In a general way the story is chronological, although in the opening chapters the writer often diverges into events long past, or into the remote future. But from the time he reaches the period immediately preceding the world war the story moves in rapid action and is in many respects informative, notwithstanding the author's prejudice, eccentricity, and, in many instances, his surprising misinformation.

It is a story of absorbing interest to the reader of history and of current events alike, and is bound to create a world of discussion. It deals not only with the direct events of the war, but covers a mass of most important collateral matter intimately or remotely related to the war.

Here are some of the significant "high spots" in a topical analysis of the story:

Why Bismarck Went Out
Diplomacy With England
Tangier Visit and Moroccan Crisis
Germany's Denial of War Aims
Propaganda Before War
Germans and Art Treasures
"The Wrong of Versailles"
Secret Talks with the Czar
Visit to Victoria's Deathbed

Germany of the Future

Publication of this remarkable autobiography began this week in The Chicago Daily News—the first installment on Tuesday, September 26. Newsdealers throughout the north-west have increased their usual supply of the paper, and can give new readers either back numbers beginning with Tuesday, or an advance "reprint" of all the chapters printed in the paper from Tuesday, September 26, to Saturday, September 30, thus insuring to every new reader "The German Kaiser's Own Story" from the beginning.

Readers who find it more convenient to get the paper by mail may send $1.00 to The Chicago Daily News, 15 North Wells street, Chicago, and get it, postage paid, daily for two months.

RADIO

GREAT DISCOVERY OF EDWIN H. ARMSTRONG

Arrangement by Which Local Plate Current Is Fed Back to Grid Circuit.

An ordinary three-electrode vacuum tube used as a detector in a circuit where the input is connected to the grid and the output taken from the plate circuit will give amplification of from 5 to 15. Adding to this amplifying action the stability of adjustment of the tube gave the tube preference over the crystal detector.

However, it was not until Edwin H. Armstrong made his great discovery of a circuit arrangement which fed back a portion of the large local plate current into the circuit through which the incoming signals arrived, thereby greatly amplifying the strength of the signal, that the vacuum tube reached its now recognized position of superiority as a detector of radio signals.

The circuit arrangement by which energy from the plate circuit of a three-electrode vacuum tube is fed back to the grid circuit is known by a different name, though, on account of the different names used and the different circuit arrangements used to accomplish the same results, amateurs are very apt to become confused. Some of the names given to the circuits which feed energy from the plate circuit to the grid circuit are "Feed Back," "Regenerative," "Tucker," "Tuned Plate" and "Ultra-Audion."

In Fig. F is shown a three-electrode vacuum tube with an alternator furnishing an alternating difference of potential to the grid circuit at T-T. The plate circuit of the tube is connected to a circuit containing an inductance L and a capacity C which together form a tuned circuit between the points X and Y. By adjusting the value of the variable condenser C, the natural period of the circuit between X and Y can be made to have the same frequency electrically as the alternating current supplied to the grid at T-T by the alternator. When this condition is reached the tuned circuit between the points X and Y becomes an infinite inductance in the external plate circuit. The potential variations between X and Y are now a maximum and are exact amplified reproductions of the potential variations applied to the grid circuit by the alternator.

Going back to the simple type of standard loose coupler hookup for a vacuum tube, we will have a circuit arrangement as shown in Fig. G. Suppose that the principle of the circuit of Fig. F be applied to the circuit arrangement of Fig. G. The result will be Fig. H. In Fig. H the inductance M has been placed in the secondary circuit and the inductance N has been placed in the plate circuit.

When the coils M and N are widely separated Fig. H is essentially the same as Fig. G. An incoming radio signal impresses a small difference of potential on the grid of the tube in Fig. H which in turn liberates a large amount of energy in the plate circuit. As the coil N is brought nearer the coil M some of this plate circuit energy is transferred to the grid circuit. This reinforcement, electrically, of the incoming signal by energy transferred from the plate circuit to the grid circuit by the coupling between the two coils M and N, causes an increase in the energy liberated in the plate circuit. Coupling the two coils M and N closer and closer will cause greater and greater amplification of the incoming signal until a point is reached where the energy fed back from the plate circuit is just equal to the losses in the secondary circuit.

An increase in the coupling between the two coils M and N will cause the tube to oscillate. By changing the tuning of the secondary circuit, the frequency of the tube oscillations will be slightly different from the frequency of the incoming oscillations due to the received signals, and the beat note will be heard in the phones. The pitch of the beat note will be the arithmetic difference between the frequency of the incoming oscillations and the oscillations furnished by the oscillating detector tube.

The human ear is most sensitive to a note corresponding to 1,000 vibrations per second or electrically to a note produced by 500 cycles. Suppose the received signal was on a 200-meter wave length of 1,500,000 cycles. By adjusting the circuits so that the tube would oscillate at a frequency of 1-500,000 or 1,499,500, the best note would be 500 cycle pitch or a 1,000 vibration note.

This beat method of reception is used to receive undamped or continuous wave signals and is called the "heterodyne" method. When the same tube is used to perform the functions of a detector and an oscillator, the method is termed the "autodyne" method.

PERFORMANCE TEST METHODS

Rules Are Drawn Up by Bureau of Standards for Investigation of New Apparatus.

Owing to the very large demand which has arisen for simple radio receiving sets, many retail dealers in other lines of work have taken up the handling of such equipment. It is very difficult for such dealers to decide whether sets offered by the manufacturers are of good or poor quality says Radio Merchandising. The whole art is so new and some of the questions involved are so technical that the problem presents considerable difficulties.

As a consequence, the Department of Commerce, and particularly the bureau of standards, has received great many requests for tests of such apparatus. As it is impossible for the bureau to conduct all the work of the nature which it would be called upon to perform, it has drawn up rules covering performance test methods which are to be carried out by the Electric Testing Laboratories of New York in co-operation with the National Retail Dry Goods association, the latter representing the retailers of radio receiving sets. As the work develops, suggestions regarding improvements in methods of testing will be subject to the approval of the bureau of standards.

The tests outlined include: Investigation as to the material and workmanship, the mechanical and electric design, simplicity of adjustment, ruggedness, sensitivity, sharpness of tuning, wave length range and faithfulness of reproduction in radio telephone reception.

TIPS TO THE RADIOIST

Dr. Marconi cites as one of the future benefits of radio the ability of a man to talk with his wife without others being able to listen in. Some of us who live in apartments and have to listen to the nightly dialogues of the Jarr family will hope that they will arrange to use radio at no late date.

No better example of the versatility of radio can be cited than its use for transmitting Chinese music.

The city fathers of Newark, N. J., are framing a law to tax all possessors of radio aerials $1 a year.

It is reported from Washington that President Harding has a powerful radio set installed in the White House.

The barbers have evidently talked themselves out and are now resorting to radio so that their customers may feel at home. The wave with the shave.

So great, in fact, have been the ac- complishments in the last few years that scientists now declare that a na- tion without applied chemistry will be "defenseless in war and laggards in peace."

Previously unheard of scientific feats have been reported from the labora- tory, but because of necessity, they were performed so quietly they were robbed of their glamor and their trap- pings of romance while lesser achieve- ments on the field of battle and in the council chambers of diplomats have been hailed by throngs.

Those of us who have left the class- room and the study hall behind find it difficult, lacking technical knowledge, to compre- hend this swift transition from one era to another, an amazing record when the nations of the world are En 185 making serious plans to scrap their at- tacks to give.

TIME HAD CHANGED THINGS

Fare Offered Might Have Satisfied Conductor Once, but Not at This Day and Date.

My young daughter and I were starting for the country. I purchased the tickets and we hurried on the train, finding a crowded coach. Not being able to secure two seats to- gether, I gave Ruth her ticket and found a seat for myself in the forward end of the car.

Soon the conductor came along col- lecting fares. I handed him my ticket and settled back comfortably in my seat. He looked first at the little piece of cardboard and then at me. I am fair, fat and forty.

He seemed rather amused as he re- turned the ticket with these words, "This might have gone at one time, but I am afraid it won't do now."

I didn't stop to argue, for as I glanced at the ticket I saw I had re- tained the half fare and given the full fare to my young daughter.—Chicago Tribune.

MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS

Read This Letter from Mrs. W. S. Hughes

Greenville, Del.—"I was under the impression that my eldest daughter had some internal trouble as ever since the first time her sickness ap- peared she had to go to bed and even had to quit school once for a week. I always take Lydia E. Pink- ham's Vegetable Compound myself so I gave it to her and she has received great benefit from it. You can use this let- ter for a testimonial if you wish, as I cannot say too much about what your medicine has done for me and for my daughter."—Mrs. Wm. S. HUGHES, Greenville, Delaware.

Mothers and oftentimes grandmothers have taken and have learned the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Com- pound. So they recommend the medi- cine to others.

The best test of any medicine is what it has done for others. For nearly fifty years we have published letters from mothers, daughters, and women, young and old, recommending the Vegetable Compound. They know what it did for them and are glad to tell others. In your own neighborhood are women who know of its great value.

Some More Truths.

WOULD you use a steam shovel to move a pebble? Certainly not. Implements are built according to the work they have to do.

Would you use a grown-up's remedy for your baby's ills? Certainly not. Remedies are prepared according to the work THEY have to do.

All this is preliminary to reminding you that Fletcher's Castoria was sought out, found and is prepared solely as a remedy for Infants and Children. And let this be a warning against Substitutes, Counterfeits and the Just-as-good stuff that may be all right for you in all your strength, but dangerous for the little babe.

All the mother-love that lies within your heart cries out to you: Be true to Baby. And being true to Baby you will keep in the house remedies specially prepared for babies as you would a baby's food, hairbrush, toothbrush or sponge.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Are You Prepared?

A doctor in the house all the time would be a good idea. Yet you can't afford to keep a doctor in the family to keep baby well or prevent sickness. But you can do almost the same thing by having at hand a bottle of Fletcher's Castoria, because it is a wonderful remedy for indigestion, colic, feverishness, fretfulness and all the other disorders that result from common ailments that babies have.

Fletcher's Castoria is perfectly safe to use. It is a harmless sub- stitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. Children cry for Fletcher's Castoria, and mothers recommend it because they have found it a comfort to children and a mother's friend.

If you love your baby, you know how sweet it is to be able to help baby when trouble comes. You cannot always call upon a doctor. But doctors have nothing but good to say of Fletcher's Castoria, be- cause they know that it can only do good—that it can't do any harm—and they wouldn't want you to use for baby a remedy that you would use for yourself.

Irwin Mohr who was going to Calumet is now going to Parker High.

Miss Agnes Hotchkin died Friday morning at the age of 18 years after a long illness and confinement to bed. She was a niece to the George Henke family. Funeral services were held from the home to the Coopers Grove church with burial in Coopers Grove cemetery.

A dance was held at the Saenger Hall Saturday evening.

A private picnic by a group of Chicago was held Sunday at the Linden Garden.

Miss Alice Hannauer of Blue Island spent Sunday at the J. C. Funk home.

Miss Eleanor Funk left Sunday evening for the University of Illinois.

A party was held at the home of Mrs. Henry Brandau Saturday evening.

A wienie roast was held at the home of Edward Andres Thursday evening.

Miss Sophia Sievert of Sheridan Road, Chicago spent Friday in Tinley Park with her parents.

The annual Harvest offering and services were held at the Tinley Park Lutheran church last Sunday.

Rev. A. Buddenhagen has returned from a trip to Creighton, Nebraska.

The Epworth League of the German M. E. church held a social meeting at the Edward Andres home, Tuesday night. An election of officers was held, following which the guests enjoyed a wienie roast.

The Sewing Circle of the German M. E. church met Thursday.

Monday Milton Zeuner was eleven years old, and in honor of the event he entertained a company of school chums in the afternoon. Following games, refreshments were served.

The drainage commissioners of drainage district No. 4 of the towns of Bremen and Orland will meet on Saturday afternoon, Sept. 30, between the hours of 2 and 3 o'clock, at Mr. Vogt's office to contract for closing tile; that all bids be in writing, closed will be received at the letting on Sept. 30. All bids are to be open.

Sunday was another big day at Tinley Park, when the Tinley Park, Frankfort, Blue Island and Posen teams played. The first game was played between Frankfort and Tinley, resulting in the defeat of Tinley, 10 to 0. Blue Island defeated Posen, 9 to 4. In the last game, Blue Island and Frankfort played, the score standing 4 to 1 in favor of Frankfort in the 5th inning, when darkness ended the game. Tinley and Frankfort are again going to match teams in the near future. These teams are extraordinarily strong and are excellent players.

MOKENA

Fred Mau was taken very ill Wednesday, and has been confined to his home since.

Rev. Wm. Kreis of the St. John Evangelical church was called to the bedside of Emil Keuch at the Burnside hospital, Chicago, Wednesday. Mr. Keuch was seriously injured when he was struck by a Wabash train, near Orland, Monday afternoon.

Philip Braun underwent a quite serious operation at the Silver Cross hospital, Joliet, Monday. He is convalescing nicely at latest reports.

The new addition to the Mokena State Bank is fast nearing completion.

The village of Mokena is going to have a better street lighting system and more powerful lights. At the monthly council meeting, held Wednesday night, it was decided to install new street lights of 280 candle power on the main street. An all night service has been asked for in place of the one o'clock schedule as now used. The new change will mean a small difference in cost from the old system, it is said, and will be far more satisfactory. The new lights are to be strung differently, too, from the ones now in use.

Owing to the big fruit crop this year, the demand for fruit cans has been so great that merchants in Mokena and other surrounding towns have not been able to supply the demand.

Chief of Police John Frisch of Mokena had a big day Thursday. His sister arrived from a trip to Germany, and his 50th birthday came on the same day. The chief had a real big time at his home Thursday evening. His sister brought much interesting news

FRANKFORT

Mrs. Konrad Bormet, daughter Miss Cora and Elmer Bormet gave a miscellaneous shower Sept. 24th in honor of the newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Bormet of New Lenox. At noon a three course dinner was served to 22 guests after which at three o'clock the shower took place. The bride and groom received many beautiful and useful gifts. At 4:30 a two course supper was served to the following guests:

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Bormet, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bethell, son George and daughter Ruth of New Lenox, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ferguson and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Heitsch, all of Minooka, Mrs. Chas. Beck and children Carl Ernst, Emil and Elsie of Orland, Mrs. T. J. McDonald of Chicago, John Larson and children Ingaborg, Waldon and Bertha of Frankfort, Paul Roesner and sister Clara Mr. and Mrs. Fred Heitsch and David Brooks, all of Mokena. The evening was spent in playing games and music. All enjoyed a fine time and departed at an early hour in the morning.

Monday evening a company of friends surprised Herman Bormet on his 22nd birthday. The evening was spent in games and music after which refreshments were served. Following were the guests: Mr. and Mrs. Fred Werner and family, Mr. and Mrs. Nick Yunker and family, Mr. and Mrs. George Wannemacher and family, Clarence Gauthier and Miss Esther Gauthier, all of Mokena.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Lambrecht entertained Mr. and Mrs. C. Hanaway, Mrs. Binder and Edward Meischer of Forest Park, Illinois, Saturday.

AFTER CHRISTMAS

Another wonderful thing has happened. I've had a letter from Father—from Father!—a letter—me!

It came this morning. Mother brought it in to me. She looked queer—a little. There were two red spots in her cheeks, and her eyes were very bright.

"I think you have a letter here from—your father," she said, handing it out.

I could see she was wondering what could be in it. But I guess she wasn't wondering any more than I was, only I was gladder to get it than she was. I suppose. Anyhow, when she saw how glad I was, and how I jumped for the letter, she drew back, and looked somehow as if she'd been hurt, and said:

"I did not know, Marie, that a letter from—your father would mean so much to you."

I don't know what I did say to that. I guess I didn't say anything. I'd already begun to read the letter, and I was in such a hurry to find out what he'd said.

I'll copy it here. It wasn't long. It was like this:

"My Dear Mary:

"Some way Christmas has made me think of you. I wish I had sent you

MODERN DAY MIRACLES

How Twentieth Century Scientists Have Rubbed the Magi's Lamp and Made the Age-old Dream of Alchemy Come True

(Told in Eight Sketches)
By JOHN RAYMOND

No. 1

THE AGE OF CHEMISTRY

Within the last few years the world has been electrified by the vast strides made in the field of science by the creative chemist. Indeed, within a generation the influence exerted upon the entire fabric of our civilization from within the laboratory has been so enormous that we are prepared at last to accept the oft-repeated statement that we have passed beyond the age of machinery and have entered into the more mysterious age of chemistry.

What this new era is to bring forth in the way of scientific discovery rests upon conjecture, but certainly, the miracles performed in the last half century have been sufficient to warrant almost any expectancy.

America has heard that Germany's chemists saved her from an early disastrous defeat, both in the field and in the matter of obtaining supplies. Without the tremendous expansion of her plants for the production of nitrates and ammonia from the air by processes developed by her great chemists the war, without question, would have ended years before it did, as a result of the exhaustion of Germany's explosives, if not from the exhaustion of her food supplies because of the lack of fertilizer for her fields. So great, in fact, have been the accomplishments in the last few years that scientists now declare that a nation without applied chemistry will be defenseless in war and laggards in peace.

Previously unheard of scientific feats have been reported from the laboratory, but because of necessity, they were performed so quietly they were robbed of their glamor and their trappings of romance while lesser achievements on the field of battle and in the council chambers of diplomats have been hailed by throngs.

Those of us who have left the classroom and the study hall far behind find it difficult, lacking technical knowledge, to comprehend this swift transition from one era to another, an amazing period when the nations how the of the world are making serious plans to scrap their active chemical and nautical armaments is possible entirely upon the stuffs and subtle but deadly material agencies developed secretly in chemical laboratories.

We who are not chemists hear strange tales these days, no less strange because they are true, of rubies and amber, ornaments of ivory, shimmering silks, colors of every hue, and exotic perfumes—once the precious cargo of desert caravans—produced from a substance as ordinary as coal tar.

Truly, chemistry has descended into the depths of the earth and extracted the secret formula of nature. The modern researcher, by constant diligence and untiring effort, has performed the mysteries which kept the alchemist of other centuries groping in the dark and branded him as one allied with the devil himself. The researcher, in finding in coal tar, not only things of beauty, but remedies for most human ills, has outdressed the alchemist by transforming a base substance into something far more precious than gold.

From this black, sticky mass he adorns a lady with colors rivaling nature itself in their barbaric splendor. He distills perfumes that equal the jasmine and he makes terrifying gases that one day will make war unthinkable. Thousands of articles upon which we depend, from TNT to paving blocks, from attic of roses to fertilizer, and from illumination gas to royal purple, are derived from the same substance.

As recently as 1700 a man who dared to say that he could produce a ruby from a lump of coal would have been accused of practicing the black art and doubtless would have ended his career at the stake. In three centuries we have gone far. To-day we accept these miracles but few of us know how the miracles are wrought. And yet there is no mystery.

The succeeding sketches will show the accidental discovery of an English boy at work in a laboratory making serious plans to scrap their active chemical and nautical armaments is possible entirely upon the stuffs and subtle but deadly material

The Farmer and The New Day

By Rev. Neumeier

Is the farmer coming to his own? Will there be a NEW DAY for the farmer? The Country Life Movement has done much in this direction, and there have been many improvements, yet the great majority of American farmers are not securing the greatest reward possible from their farm; they do not get the rightful share of the consumer's dollar, and he does not have his due place in our democracy.

The farmer is expected to feed and clothe the world, and all progress depends upon his ability to do this. If the farmer is to be contented, and if he is to have a place in the present civilization, he must have reasonable profits and reasonable conditions of living and work so that it will pay, and will induce the best blood to stay on the farm, and even invite others to take up the occupation.

Is there a rural policy to bring about the NEW DAY? President Butterfield, of the Massachusetts Agricultural College, claims that there is no one central and outstanding policy in America, even though there are policies among the different rural leaders. There is no one central educational policy for the betterment of rural life, nor is there one outstanding farmers' organization with a definite program to improve agriculture and country life and to adjust the interests of farmers to the common good of the nation and the world. There are farmers' organizations, national, state, local, and in many other ways, yet on the whole there are no effective general farm organizations. As a whole the farmers are not cooperating through organizations as they might.

We must learn that it takes statesmanship to effect better rural life. If the farmer is to come to his own, there must be real leadership and real statesmanship to bring this about. The farmer must have a real place in a democracy, with some degree of individual freedom, equality of opportunity as compared with city occupation, responsible participation in affairs, and there must be cooperation for the common good.

Any program of reconstruction in our country, any really effective, must release the farmer. He is handicapped. He must have access to the land and sufficient capital to operate the farm. He must have sufficient force (labor force) to put over a program. He must meet the problem of production, management, distribution, agricultural stability and insurance instead of instability; and there must be a stable policy of international trade. Besides this, there are educational and social problems. These questions concern all, and should be met by all.

Work in His Lot.
The eight-hour working day is unknown in the rural districts of the Balkans. The peasant works from sunrise until after dark. He is so bent and weather-scared that he looks twice his age after thirty. In some cases he belongs to nomadic tribes and leads an existence unknown to the country district of England or America. At night one often passes a wagon loaded with them on the road from town to town. Every man is asleep, lulled by thoughts of burglars or highwaymen.

Business Query.
The pawnbroker who had wealth and had retired was staying at a fashionable hotel. His only worry was that he had fits of absent-mindedness. One night a conjurer came to the hotel and went through his performances. Presently he cried out: "Will any gentleman in the audience lend me $10?" "On what?" shouted the ex-pawnbroker.

Uncle Eben.
"Form will tell," said Uncle Eben. "Dat story 'bout de hare an' de tortoise describes de fluke dat made a good moral lesson. Jes' de same, if I ever gits a chance at dat kind of a race I's giner bet on de rabbit."

Uncle Eben's Philosophy.
"When I works," said Uncle Eben, "I gits along better wifout a helper, unless I kin find enough foh him to do to keep him fum thinkin' he's a audience."

In Case of Fire.
Do not get excited, but move quickly. Take everything off your hangers, then off your dresser. Empty dresser drawers, putting everything on your bed. Then take two opposite corners of spread and tie together. Then throw out of window. It doesn't take long and in most cases there is time for this saving of treasures. Have little drills with the children. It is fun and teaches a lesson.

Necessity for Saving.
Any man who cannot save money is bound to be dependent on relatives or charity when he attains old age and is unable to earn a living.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

FROM THE SHADOWS

THE man or woman who smiles upon us from the lowly cottage door, ever ready to offer a helping hand to the unfortunate and to give cheerful encouragement to the weary, has, through tenderness and love, found the way to a sunshine that grows brighter and brighter until the end of life.

The dismal panorama of dark clouds has drifted away from the sky and nothing remains but the crystal depths of benevolent blue.

Despair has yielded to confidence, but not without first marking its exit with sorrows and tears, and perhaps also ragged dishonor, thus fitting the soul for the comforting change.

Erring, thoughtless, selfish, untrue, and living in the valleys of darkness while the beauties of Nature were striving for mastery, the shadowed soul found it difficult to rise to the glorious heights where the atmosphere was sweet and pure.

If, when you are in the shadows, you expect an angel from heaven to come to earth and lead you away to a blissful elysium, you will find that you are still living among shadowy delusions.

To break away from the somber shade lurking everywhere about us is extremely difficult, but with a heart filled with a struggling radiance of faith, sustained by qualities which only faith can give us, we can do it, and reach the state of tranquil content which comes quietly to the earnest and sincere, like the sunshine of morning after a night of storm.

We may clap our hands to the heights but we cannot reach them except by our own unceasing endeavor.

We must expect tired, bruised feet, we must anticipate slips and falls and a sickening sense of our own infirmities, but we must keep climbing—keep holding fast all the while to the hand of shining-eyed Faith, who, in spite of our unworthiness, will lead us hour by hour to higher ground.

There are many ways in which we may help ourselves, but not until our hearts have been properly attuned to the dominant key and kept in tune.

Hard work, high thinking and a charitable attitude towards others will be found helpful attendants, for without their first aids no man or woman however accomplished or exalted, can hope to emerge from the shadows and write an acceptable record of a well-spent life.

SMILE AND HUSTLE

WHEN your plans go all awry, Smile and hustle.

Not a bit of use to cry.

Smile and hustle.

Waste of time to fret and scold; Brace, and get another hold;

Meet the future brave and bold—

Smile and hustle.

Some big scheme wound up in wreck?

Smile and hustle.

Bad luck smite you in the neck?

Smile and hustle.

Be a man among big men.

Grab a hold and try again.

Spit upon your hands, and then

Smile and hustle.

When a brave man hits the bumps—

Smile and hustle.

Then is when he up and humps,

Smile and hustle.

Waste of time to weep and wail,

Just forget that small word "fail."

Don't moon 'round till you go stale—

Smile and hustle.

Everybody has bad luck.

Smile and hustle.

That's the time to show your pluck

Smile and hustle.

Say, "Hard luck, good-by to you,"

Start off on a tack that's new.

Keep straight on with purpose true,

Smile and hustle.

Company A, One Hundred and Ninety-second infantry at Woodstock, has been federalized. The company has three officers and about 50 enlisted men.

The Illinois China company of Lincoln, whose plant was destroyed by fire several months ago, is building another plant, larger than the one destroyed.

A record of 700 gallons of tomatoes canned in one day was reached in the new canning department of the state hospital at Kankakee. Practically all the work is done by patients.

An official notice setting October 1 as the date for a strike on vessels of the Lake Carriers' association was sent out from Chicago by the Sailors' Union of the Great Lakes.

The tenth month of the state egg-laying contests held at Quincy and Murphysboro, under the direction of State Poultryman Scott, shows the Mediterranean class at Murphysboro to be in the lead for the month.

Oscar E. Carlstrom of Aledo, one of the five members of the Illinois tax commission and executive board member of the American Legion, has reported to Department Commander William R. McCauley that the payment of the Illinois bonus, which is dependent upon a vote of the people November 7, will increase the state rate of taxation which is now 45 mills, only 1-10 mills. His figures are based upon a total assessed valuation of property in Illinois of $4,201,000,000.

National Homeopathic Clinic day, an annual event with the American Institute of Homeopathy, will be observed in Chicago, and a hundred other cities of the United States, October 3, it was announced by Dr. Brayton E. Kinne of Albany, N. Y., general chairman. In Chicago the day will be marked by the annual meeting of the Illinois Homeopathic Medical association. More than 250 Illinois doctors are expected to attend, Dr. Carlton A. Harkness, president of the association, announced.

The state of Illinois recently sold $6,000,000 worth of road bonds for $5,981,300, or at the rate of $99.69 for each $100 bond. The price received is considerably more favorable than that received at the second sale of $6,000,000 held on April 13, 1922, at which the bonds brought $98.875, representing a yield of 4.11 per cent, the department announced. The first bond sale of $5,000,000, which was held on October 25, 1921, resulted in a price of $94.02, or an interest rate of approximately 4.85 per cent. These figures indicate the steady rise of the bond market, and in each case the prices secured have been most satisfactory.

Cooler temperature will stimulate the southern flight of ducks and geese, and central Illinois hunters are preparing for the general roundup of the migratory game birds. The season is now officially open. Mourning doves are now being sought, the season closing September 30. Rails can be found at certain points along the Illinois river and snipe and plover may be expected at any time. Squirrels are now available for the nimrod who does not care for birds, and can be found in large numbers in timbered sections. With the reopening of the hunting season there has been a marked increase in the demand for permits. County clerks say the number of licenses issued will compare favorably with former years.

Exercise of the franchise in voting on the proposed new Illinois constitution, adopted a few days ago by the constitutional convention at its final session in Springfield, is "the highest political duty of free men and women," the committee on submission and address stated in a formal address adopted by the convention. The address, which pointed out what the new basic law provides and why it should be approved, is to be printed and sent broadcast over the state. Provision has been made for printing over 2,000,000 copies, should that many be needed. It will be the pivotal element in the educational campaign for adoption of the instrument. In concluding its address, the committee said: "It is not to be pretended that the instrument is perfect, or even that it represents all the hopes and wishes of any one man or of any group of men. The real and only question presented to the people of Illinois is: Is this proposed new constitution, framed by your representatives, better than the constitution under which you now live? This question must be put and answered in view of the welfare of the whole state and all her population."

The population of Rockford is approximately 81,000, according to figures compiled by a directory company. The federal census of 1920 gave the city a population of 65,651.

John Wooley, twice prohibition candidate for President, was buried from the Paris Presbyterian church, which was filled to capacity. Floral tributes were sent from many states. Rev. Edwin Lord, pastor, presided, assisted by city clergy, and leaders of the Anti-Saloon league. A committee of Methodist ministers named by Bishop Nicholson of Chicago attended.

Three bandits held up the Bank of Thompsonville, at Thompsonville, and, according to reports, escaped with all the money in the bank.

Suit for $10,000 damages has been filed in the circuit court by six Rockford residents against the Rock River Development company to recover money invested by them in oil stocks they declare have proved worthless.

The Springfield Business and Professional Women's club, acting on suggestion of the national federation, has appropriated $500 to lend to worthy girls, who desire to complete a business education.

Short of men to help cut broom corn, Arcola producers are working overtime in an effort to complete the harvest. Ideal harvesting conditions prevail and this season's crop is one of the heaviest ever cut in this section.

For using chemicals to keep meat looking fresh, eleven Chicago meat market owners were fined from $5 and costs to $200 and costs. The cases were prosecuted by the health department.

Thousands of fish, mostly those of the species known as river shad, resembling the sucker, perished in Kishwaukee river during the last month, as a result, it is believed, of the intense heat. The drought made the river unusually low.

Three persons were killed and two injured when an Illinois Traction system electric train was wrecked in a collision with an automobile three miles west of Edwardsville. One coach was overturned and two sleepers derailed. The dead are: Thomas Naylor, sixty years old; George Naylor, twenty-five, a son, and John Peterman, sixty, all of Troy. They were in the automobile.

William L. Lech of Amboy, Lee county, has been appointed by Governor Small to the state Court of Claims to succeed B. H. Miller of Libertyville, whose term expired. Lech is a former member of the legislature. Governor Small issued a call for a special election December 12 in the Fourteenth judicial district to fill the vacancy on the circuit bench caused by the death of Judge Emory Graves of Geneseo. The circuit is composed of Rock Island, Whitesides, Mercer and Henry counties.

To counteract the effect of reports of disorders in Roodhouse during the shopmen's strike, citizens of Roodhouse held a mass meeting at which resolutions were passed denouncing law breaking, emphasizing that they are squarely behind the government and insisting on fair wages and working conditions for the shop craftsmen. The meeting also passed a resolution approving the sale of supplies by merchants of Roodhouse to the Chicago & Alton railroad and their employees.

Advices from cities over the state seem to indicate an attempt to lower coal prices by a voluntary coal buyers' strike. Chicago reports that where, as a general rule, apartment houses have 25 per cent of their coal stored away by this time, only 2 or 3 per cent of the supply has been purchased to date. Chicago home owners are also slow about buying their winter supply. F. M. James & Sons, coal dealers in Springfield, state that purchasers who last year were buying 100 tons of coal, this year have purchased only 25 tons.

Governor Small has proclaimed Monday, October 9, as Fire Prevention day, suggesting at the same time that the week of October 2-9 be devoted to activities for removing fire hazards. Calling attention to fire loss of a half billion dollars in property each year in the United States and of at least $20,000,000 loss in Illinois, the governor recommended that mayors of cities issue local proclamations, that pastors preach from the pulpit on fire prevention and that educational exercises and fire drills be held in the schools, stores and buildings.

The famous Ben Davis apple is rapidly disappearing from the orchards of Illinois, according to O. A. Plunket of the state natural history survey. Although the Ben Davis is a good selling apple, fruit growers are including few, if any, trees of this variety in their new planting, because the Ben Davis is peculiarly susceptible to the blister canker, which is one disease spraying will not control. Calhoun county, in which more apple trees have been planted in the last five years than any other county in Illinois, has almost entirely eliminated the Ben Davis in new planting.

Charges of low regimental morale, favoritism, inefficiency and lack of military experience by the commanding officer and his staff are rife around the Broadway armory, Chicago, following the resignation of 14 line officers of the Two Hundred and Second anti-aircraft artillery. All the officers are veterans of overseas fighting in France. The resignations have been submitted to Adjutant General Black at Springfield by Maj. Francis W. Parker, Jr., commander of the Two Hundred and Second artillery, to whom they were first submitted last week. Predictions were made that the resignations would cause a thorough investigation of the Illinois National Guard.

On the basis of its strong militia, Decatur is going after an appropriation at the next session of the legislature for an armory, according to announcement of the Decatur Association of Commerce.

The Winnebago county board of supervisors has approved plans for the construction of eight miles of concrete roads 18 feet in width. The county will receive a refund of $78,000 from the state for work done in the county the last summer, and this will be applied to the cost of next year's road work.

But one is just as dishonest as the other. And often the little fellow is the worse, for he adds cowardice to his crookedness.

A full-grown man or woman, trained in life who does a dishonest action, will do another under the same circumstances.

A boy or girl, lacking this training will sometimes become straight with the growth of intelligence.

For the ancient adage about honesty being the best policy is so apparent to common sense that even people who are mentally crooked often turn honest and remain honest, merely because more profit can be had in that manner of life.

It is well to apply the honesty test to yourself, and change your method if you find that under certain circumstances you would take advantage of a fellow creature—legally or illegally.

It is well to drop friends that you catch cheating at cards or at golf, or in business. For the cheat is a particularly despicable form of crook, and deserves no friends whatever.

Never think that a man or a woman is a little dishonest, or dishonest about some things and honest about others.

They are 100 per cent honest or not honest at all. They are honest in everything or honest in nothing.

If they are honest, as we believe most people are, they are worthy to be trusted. If they are dishonest, knowing what dishonesty means, the wider berth you give them the better it will be for you.

The Friendly Path

By WALTER I. ROBINSON

SIN AND CITIES

DON'T blame sin on the cities.

No community is ever better than the people within it. If the people are honest, God-fearing, law-abiding and live up to the teachings of their churches, regardless of denomination, they'll find little cause for complaint no matter where they live. But when they know what is right and don't do it or don't insist on others following the best pathway, they are likely to be disgruntled with conditions which they bring upon themselves.

We know a great deal about most of the big cities, but we know just as much of the small towns and open country, and proportionately, we believe, there is no difference in the volume of wrong-doing. And we confidently believe that if people hailing from the small towns and country would be as devout to the cause of right as they claim to be when they come into large communities, the blotches on cities' reputations would be much fewer than they are.

It is true that there are many more amusements and inducements in big towns which are likely to divert newcomers' attention from church work and home life. But none of these will lead people from the proper pathway unless they are willing to be led. Even commercialized amusements on the Sabbath will have no harmful effects on those who know they are wrong, if they wish conscientiously to follow the safe pathway.

Remove from every big city the sinners who rush in from small places for hiding and the police and uplift workers would find little work necessary in order to preserve the standards of morality and honesty which are so greatly to be desired.

Able ministers, fine churches, educational opportunities, science, invention and commercial and industrial progress of the cities are the kind of inspirations which should make the world in general more happy, comfortable and thankful to God.

WHAT TO EAT

DISHES for luncheon that are not too filling will be found in the following:

Ham and Noodles.

Butter an earthen baking dish, put into the bottom a layer of cooked noodles, add a layer of cold boiled ham cut into small bits, then another layer of noodles. Repeat until the dish is full. Beat one egg, add one cupful of milk and pour into the dish. Cover with crumbs, dot with butter and bake in a moderate oven.

Baked Sausages With Rice.

Cut pork sausages into thin slices. Butter a baking dish and fill with cold boiled rice. Moisten the rice with water in which beef extract has been dissolved. Spread the sliced sausages over the rice and bake in a hot oven until the slices are crisp.

Graham Gems.

Take one cupful each of sour milk and graham flour, one-half teaspoonful of soda, a little salt, one egg, well beaten, two tablespoonfuls of sugar and three of shortening. Bake in well-greased gem pans.

Baked Eggs With Cheese.

Make toast of rounds of bread which have been cut nearly through with a smaller cutter and the center thus made hollowed out. Mix grated cheese with cream and spread over the toast. Arrange on a platter, break an egg in each depression, sprinkle with seasonings and cheese, dot with butter and set into the oven in a dripping pan of hot water. Bake until the eggs are set.

Remarkable Afghan Hounds Owned by Englishman

This photo, just received from England, was taken in that country's only kennel of pure-bred Afghan hounds—that of Major G. Bell-Murray at Kirkpatrick. The Afghan hound is famous for its scent as well as for its speed. Although it is a "coursing" dog, like the equally-speedy greyhound, it does not depend on keenness of vision, as does that English breed, but follows a scent like a foxhound or a beagle. And it has greater strength and endurance than the greyhound and stands the cold better. It is probably the only dog that keeps its own breed pure.

WORMS TO EDUCATE HIM

City for Which Holy War May Be Started

Paul A. Webb wanted to enter Allegheny college, which is situated in western Pennsylvania, but was rather short of funds. Reverting to a natural ability to gather fishing worms and "hell benders," Webb went into the business in a legitimate way, and soon had sold enough to fishermen for bait to pay part of his expenses. So he engaged others to carry on his little business, and from the profits that he realized is able to pay his way through college.

KEMAL AS ARAB SHEIK

This rare and unusual photograph of Mustapha Kemal Pasha, the man of the hour in Turkey, shows him wearing the national costume of Arabia in compliment to the Arabian allies in his army.

Mustapha Kemal Pasha, leader of the Turkish Nationalists, says Constantinople must be restored to the Turks, and General Townshend, the hero of Kut-el-Amara, agrees with him. This view of the city which may be the bone of contention in a new "holy war" was taken from the war office tower, looking northwest toward the Bosphorus and Stamboul.

Boscoe Didn't Like New York at All

The big city had no attractions or charms for Boscoe, a collie owned by Mrs. May Kendrick of Fort Worth, Tex. Mrs. Kendrick went to New York five months ago and left Boscoe with friends. Three days of the city was all the dog could stand, and so he "ran away" to his Texas home. Hair matted, his usual plumpness gone, and his feet sore, Boscoe arrived at the Kendrick home in Fort Worth, having walked all the way.

LESSON FOR OCTOBER 1

BIRTH OF JOHN THE BAPTIST

LESSON TEXT—Luke 1:5-23, 57-63.
GOLDEN TEXT—He shall be great in the sight of the Lord, and he shall drink no wine nor strong drink.—Luke 1:15.
REFERENCE MATERIAL—Isa. 40:3-5; Mal. 4:4-6.
PRIMARY TOPIC—An Angel Brings Good News.
JUNIOR TOPIC—The Birth of John the Baptist.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Preparation for the Coming of Christ.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Place and Work of John the Baptist.

We are today entering upon a six months' course of study in the Gospel of Luke, whose general subject is "Jesus the World's Savior." Today's lesson concerns the birth of John the Baptist, the forerunner of Christ.

I. The Parents of John the Baptist (vv. 5-7).

1. When They Lived (v. 5). "In the days of Herod the King." They lived in a day when ungodliness was rife. The priesthood was very corrupt and the ruling classes were wicked. Zacharias and his wife lived in a time when it was not so easy to be godly.

2. Their Character (v. 6). They were righteous before God. To be righteous before God is a high tribute. Many appear to be righteous before men who are not righteous before God. Their lives were so mated that they walked in the commandments of the Lord blameless. How beautiful it is when husband and wife are united in the Lord and walk together in fellowship with God.

3. They Were Childless (v. 7). Though this godly couple were well mated and they possessed the joy of the Lord in their souls, there was a real lack in that home.

II. The Birth of John Promised (vv. 8-17).

1. By Whom (v. 11; cf. v. 19). The angel Gabriel appeared and made known the good news to Zacharias. This exalted being, the special messenger of God, was sent to make this disclosure.

2. When (vv. 8-14). While officiating as priest this good news came to him. Zacharias must have been definitely praying about this very matter (v. 13). As he burned incense, which typified prayer, the multitude without were praying.

3. Characteristics of the Child (vv. 15-17). (1) Shall be great in the sight of the Lord (v. 15). Though the people did not greatly esteem him he was highly esteemed by the Lord. This is infinitely better than if he had been greatly esteemed in the eyes of men or in his own eyes. This is the esteem for which we all should long and pray. (2) Shall drink neither wine nor strong drink (v. 15). The child shall become a Nazirite, separating himself from the sensuous things and dedicating himself to the service of the Lord. (3) Be filled with the Holy Ghost (v. 15). The energy of the divine Spirit would enable him to lead the people to repentance (v. 16). (4) Shall go in the spirit and power of Elijah (v. 17). In this power he was to prepare the people for the coming of the Savior and the salvation which He was to bring.

III. Zacharias Asking for a Sign (vv. 18-23).

Although the aged priest was earnestly praying for the salvation of Israel, the gracious promise of the angel, which was the beginning of that salvation, staggered his faith. He was unable to believe that that for which he fondly hoped and prayed would be realized. The angel gave Zacharias a sign. He was smitten with dumbness which was to continue until the fulfillment of the promise. Because he refused to praise God in faith for this gracious promise God caused his tongue to be silent until the promise was fulfilled and his lips could open in thanksgiving and praise. Though he was thus rebuked, at the same time his faith was strengthened by the manifestation of the supernatural. God wants us to trust Him, to believe his promises, no matter how contrary to reason they may seem.

IV. The Promise Fulfilled (vv. 57-63).

When the time came for the birth of John, Elizabeth brought forth a son and the neighbors rejoiced with her. On the eighth day they circumcized the child and gave him a name according to the instruction of the angel (v. 13). The name John was contrary to the family custom. By means of writing Zacharias made known the name which he would have by divine instruction. At this time God opened the mouth of Zacharias and he offered up praise.

Youth and Age.

In my youth I thought of writing a satire on mankind; but now in my age I think I should write an apology for them.—Walpole.

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease. If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased. Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often-times symptoms of kidney trouble. Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions. Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Advertisement.

AUTO DRIVER MUST TAKE CARE IN CITY

Law Regulates Traffic in Streets for the Protection of the Public.

Special provision is made by law for the regulation of automobile traffic in cities and every city has its own local regulations, but the automobile driver should also exercise his judgment and observe whatever other rules seem advisable, Secretary of State Louis L. Emmerson declares.

"Under the law, an automobile must not approach closer than ten feet behind a street car which is loading or unloading passengers," he continued. "In some cities where there are safety zones, autos are allowed to pass if they do so slowly. The driver should remember that persons alighting from a trolley car are sometimes bewildered and do not know which way to go."

"Too much reliance should not be placed in the use of the automobile horn in city streets. The machine should be operated at a speed which permits stopping within a few feet in case pedestrians do not heed the signal and walk in front of the car. The driver should remember that some people are deaf and that others are naturally heedless. A group of persons in the middle of the street, startled by the sound of the horn, may scatter in opposite directions and an immediate stop by the automobile is the only way in which an accident can be avoided. Signs indicating the proximity of a school building should always be heeded by the driver in order to avoid striking children when they run into the street in play."

Good Printing

THE kind of printing that pays dividends is the kind you should have. Pale, muddy, poorly arranged printed matter is worse than none. The quality of your business is often judged by the quality of your stationery—inferior printing gives an impression of cheapness that is hard to overcome, while good printing carries with it a desirable suggestion of quality.

We produce only Quality Printing. Whether you want an inexpensive handbill or a letterhead in colors, if you order it from us you will be sure of getting good work. We have the equipment and the "know how" that enables us to get out really good printing—printing that impresses people with the good taste of its users. That is the only kind of printing that

MR. MERCHANT

You Need the Newspaper

The newspaper of today is the most powerful medium of advertising on earth. In the old days the merchant may have thought he was a benefactor and that he was contributing his bit "as a public-spirited citizen" when he carried a two-inch space in the village paper every week in the year and generally without change of copy. Possibly he was.

But that is changed now. A new order has arrived. People read advertisements. Many find their greatest interest in looking over the advertising pages to get news that will save them money, and, take it from John D. Rockefeller, the way to save your dollars is first to save your pennies.

Advertisements today are right up to the minute. They are as fresh as the news of the world or the latest baseball score. Live merchants cater to live people and they know they must not alone be up to the minute, but they must be some distance ahead. They must anticipate the wants of their customers.

And they do. Turn to the advertisements in this paper right now. Just read what the merchants are offering. Notice the invitations for you to do business with them. Notice how attractively the advertisements are set up and how inviting they are.

Do you know that some firms think so much of a style of type that they buy series of it just for their advertisement? You can never mistake B. Altman's advertisement. As soon as you see the open type you know it is Altman's advertisement without looking for the name. This is true of many firms.

Business men—that is the successful ones—know advertising pays big returns. Unsuccessful men don't advertise because they are unsuccessful. That's the answer. Look over your town right now and pick out the big firms. They're the advertisers. Advertising is the tonic that puts dividends in the banks.

Everybody reads advertisements today. Mr. Merchant, is your advertisement in this newspaper?
